A fine country house built in traditional Bath stone, set in seven acres of paddock and formal gardens

Bybrook is situated close to the village of Box in an area of outstanding natural beauty. The village is a thriving community just four miles from the historic city of Bath. Set in the beautiful Avon Valley, Bath has become a mainly residential city and lively cultural centre which attracts many visitors.

Bybrook welcomes up to 30 older people in single or shared bedrooms, many with 'en-suite' bathrooms. The Home is centrally heated and warmly carpeted throughout and there is a fully automatic lift.

There are two comfortable sitting rooms, a spacious dining room and a cosy, informal sun room where residents may enjoy reading, television or entertaining friends. These all enjoy lovely views across the gardens and surrounding countryside.

The spirit of Bybrook House is embodied in the relaxed, unhurried and friendly manner of the staff, the warmth of the building and the wonderful rural location.

The countryside and rural pursuits are all near at hand. A trout stream runs through the grounds. Wildlife abounds and birdwatching is a particular pleasure at all times of year.

At Bybrook there is always something to do. There is a lively social programme of special interests, picnics, outings and cultural activities. Handicrafts, card games and other pastimes all take place.

We provide a high standard of nursing with a quality hospitality service, supervised by our professional and well-qualified cooks. Menus are varied, special needs met and popular requests catered for whenever possible. Meals are served in the dining room or individually to resident's room as they wish.

Bybrook House offers warmth, companionship and experienced nursing care in peaceful, country house surroundings.

Many of our residents enjoy entertaining friends and family at Bybrook House whether for lunch, dinner or a picnic in the garden.

Afternoon tea is served in the drawing room and guests are welcome at any time.
